Program Objectives

1. Describe three factors that influence practice culture.
2. List three strategies to transform practice culture.
3. Discuss common themes and markers of success across projects.
4. Review the journey of “beside nurse to bedside scientist” as principle investigator of a nurse-driven, IRB approved research study.
5. Discuss how the Flinders program promotes effective patient self-management for chronic conditions and the impact on a home care program.
6. Detail project milestones in the design and development of an electronic, daily navigational tool for patient and family information and teaching.
7. Explore the challenges and opportunities associated with design and implementation of a NICHE program.
8. Summarize the development of a teach-back standard work process focused on improving learning outcomes.
9. Explore the translation of research findings and strategies to redesign a clinical process.
10. Identify the process for implementing change in the emergency department.
11. Describe the OR/Sterile Processing culture and degrees of change within OR/Sterile Processing environment.
12. Detail a nursing research project developed to address patient perceptions of RN uniforms and staff identity.
13. Explain the methodologies used to prepare a strategic report on the implementation of CHURN model.
14. Discuss the advantages of implementing Telehealth services within a hospital network.

Keynote Speaker

Marita Titler, PhD, RN, FAAN, is internationally recognized for her scholarly expertise in health services research with a focus in translation, implementation science, and outcomes effectiveness research targeting older adults. Currently professor and chair for the Division of Health Systems and Effectiveness Science at the University of Michigan School of Nursing, Titler serves as faculty in a variety of areas including evidence-based practice, outcomes effectiveness research and translation science. She received federal and foundation funding for research, serves on NIH and AHRQ study section, and has published numerous clinical and research articles.

For more than 20 years, Titler's work centered on leading research that would impact practice especially in the acute care setting. Her passion for outcomes research was instrumental in the development and implementation of The Iowa Model of Evidence-Based Practice to Improve Quality Care. The Iowa Model guides clinical decision-making and evidence-based practice implementation from both the practitioner and organizational perspectives. This framework empowers nurses to make decisions about practice that affects patient outcomes.

Titler was awarded a PhD in Nursing Administration from the University of Iowa College of Nursing. In 2010, she received the Presidents Award for Translation Science from Friends of the National Institute of Nursing Research (FNINR) and Rhetaugh G. Dumas Endowed Chair Installation.
