President's Innovation Challenge: Submit Groundbreaking Ideas to Improve LVHN Patient Experience

BY KIRSTIN REED · JULY 3, 2019

The goal of the President's Innovation Challenge is to develop innovative ways to care for our patients, and the process is simple.

Think outside the box.

- Put yourself in the patients' shoes. How do patients and families interact with your department?
- Would you add, change or eliminate a service or program to improve the patient experience?

Think about industry leaders (inside and outside of the health care industry).

- What practices have you learned about at a recent conference?
- What have you read about in a recent journal article?

Incorporate elements like these into your proposed idea, and make it unique to the LVHN experience.

Complete the submission form.

Outline your idea, but don't solve the problem. You read that right. We are not looking for a solution. No business plan. No financial forecast. Just your remarkable ideas.

Use the prompt to fill in the question "How might we," like the following examples:

- How might we use technology to make life better for a person with a disability?
- How might we quickly connect patients diagnosed with cancer to a support community?
- How might we encourage kids to take medications properly?
- How might we improve the clinical trial experience for patients?
- How might we improve the patient flow through our facilities?

After you craft a “How might we” question about the problem you want to address, answer these questions from the patient’s point of view:

- What is the problem or need?
- Who is affected by it?
- How is it currently addressed or not addressed?
- What makes your idea remarkable?

The most creative ideas that are most likely to positively impact the patient experience will be reviewed by the Patient Experience Steering Team for prioritization and the top ideas will be assigned to an Innovation Team to explore further. Be thoughtful about your submission. To keep submissions concise, responses to each question will be limited to 250 words. If an idea is not directly related to patient experience or if it does not align with the Network Goals for patient experience, it will not be reviewed by the Patient Experience Steering Team.

Submissions will be accepted July 5 through Aug. 5. Submit your remarkable idea here.

Calling All Musikfest Volunteers

BY ASHLEY TOTH · JULY 3, 2019

Join LVHN Aug. 1-11 as a volunteer for the nation's largest free music festival, Musikfest! LVHN is proud to once again partner with ArtsQuest as the official health care provider for Bethlehem's popular Musikfest.

We are in need of colleague volunteers to staff our four LVHN Health Tents for the duration of the festival. It's a chance to show you are #LVHNProud and a great way to enjoy summer while listening to some great musicians as you interact with our community.

Both clinical and nonclinical colleagues are needed for shifts ranging from 2 ½ to 4 hours. Licensed colleagues (such as registered nurses, physicians and physician assistants) will be appropriately compensated. Everyone will receive a moisture-wicking LVHN T-shirt.

Signing up is easy. Simply review this letter, self-learning packet, and schedule to select your times, including your second and third choices. Once you've decided on a shift, call 888-402-LVHN to schedule.

New Patient Satisfaction Survey Vendor to Improve the Survey Experience

BY AMANDA BIALEK · JULY 1, 2019

Giving our patients the best possible experience is at the heart of our commitment to be a valued partner for our community. To collect more timely feedback from our patients about their experience with LVPG, we're welcoming a new partner in patient satisfaction surveying, NRC Health.

Research shows that 73 percent of patients prefer to be asked for feedback a few minutes to a couple days after their office visit. Real-time Feedback, an outreach program by NRC Health, sends out a patient satisfaction survey shortly after an office visit.

What patients can expect

Starting July 2, patients who complete an appointment with an LVPG provider will receive a patient satisfaction survey from NRC Health instead of our former vendor Press Ganey. A survey invitation will occur soon after the appointment via:

- Email – Email outreach will be the first form of contact to invite participation in the short survey.
- Phone – If no response is given to the email, a phone call using Interactive Voice Response (IVR) will be sent out 24 hours later.
- Text – If the patient does not participate in the survey via telephone, a text message will be sent out 24 hours after the call.

Please note that outreach methods are dependent upon the information provided by the patient.

If no email is provided, NRC Health will substitute with phone outreach (IVR).

Benefits of Real-time Feedback's approach:

- Reduction of survey questions from 55 to 12
- Surveys take approximately two minutes to complete
- LVPG will receive the results immediately

Real-time Feedback will allow us to gather patient feedback more quickly and address any concerns in a timely manner. Our partnership with NRC Health is one more example of how we work to continuously improve the experience our patients have at LVPG and our health network.

If you have any questions about this transition or the survey process, contact Leilani Souders.

Scenes from LVHN Night at the Ballpark – Photos and Video

BY RICK MARTUSCELLI · JULY 3, 2019

If you went out to the IronPigs ballgame on June 26, you certainly met colleagues, learned about LVHN services, and even saw colleagues on the field. That was the night LVHN sponsored the game at Coca-Cola Park. Here are photos from the fun-filled night.

As the game sponsor, we had the opportunity to do many things to highlight ways we partner with our community. For example, we honored our cancer survivors and gave away Lehigh Valley Reilly Children's Hospital backpacks to kids.

We hosted a health fair that included interactive displays, giveaways and information from several LVHN departments. Baseball fans tried the DaVinci Surgical Robot, toured out Mobile Stroke Unit and Mobile Mammography Coach, learned about hands-only CPR and car seat safety, received information about our Veterans Health Program, video visits and pediatric specialties, and so much more.

Those in attendance also heard from two colleagues. During an interview, Michael Pasquale, MD, educated the crowd about the services and technology Lehigh Valley Institute for Surgical Excellence provides to our region. Plus, Marketing Planning Supervisor Nina Ace sang a beautiful rendition of the national anthem. Watch below.

Pennsylvania Governor Honors Rachel Lefebvre for Military Service

BY KIRSTIN REED · JULY 4, 2019

The Pennsylvania Governor's Residence buzzed with anticipation as the crowd awaited the arrival of Gov. Tom Wolf and First Lady Frances Wolf. In the room on this early spring day stood 16 female veterans representing the Marines, Army, Navy and Air Force who served in Vietnam, the Gulf Wars and Afghanistan, as well as a decorated veteran in her 90s who served in the Women Army Corps (established in 1943). Among this distinguished group of veterans was Rachel Lefebvre, Vice President of Operations at LVH-17th Street.

The veterans shared laughter and tears, and recounted memories from their years of service as they prepared to be recognized by Gov. Wolf and the Pennsylvania Commission for Women for military service during the fourth annual Female Veterans Day Ceremony celebrating Women's History Month. "Although I had never met any of these ladies until this event, it was as if we had known each other for years," Lefebvre says.

As Lefebvre accepted the award, she reflected on the honor. "Racing through my head was how fortunate we are as Americans to live in a country that supports freedom and democracy, and is making vast efforts towards gender equality," she says. "I also was recounting the thousands of other veterans – female and male – who had dedicated their lives, who have served our country. We are truly standing on the shoulders of giants."

Lefebvre served in the United States Air Force for nearly 26 years, retiring as Colonel in 2017 after holding a variety of leadership positions. She commanded medical facilities in the U.S. and internationally, and served a year-long tour in a combat zone. Multiple tours at the Pentagon – at both the corporate level and in medical centers – round out her vast military experiences. Her Air Force career culminated with a post as Chief Executive Officer leading one of the Department of Defense's largest ambulatory surgical and specialty centers.

In 2017, Lefebvre joined LVHN and currently serves as a campus leader for LVH–17th Street. Her colleagues agree that her positivity and commitment has instilled trust and delivered a renewed sense of optimism and energy to the halls of LVH–17th Street.

“The LVH–17th Street campus is a special gem where colleagues are devoted to expanding services to the community,” Lefebvre says. “We invest in each other’s development and deliver an exceptional patient experience through the internal partnerships we’ve formed and continue to nurture.”

Lefebvre will also lead our new health campus in Lower Nazareth Township, which will be located just off Route 33 and Hecktown Road. She partners with colleagues throughout LVHN on planning for this newest addition to a group of health care resources LVHN established in Northampton County to make care more accessible and convenient for area families. “We will deliver an extraordinary patient experience – every time, at every touch point along a patient’s journey – and focus on personalized care, convenience and seamless access,” she says.

Lefebvre stands among nearly 450 colleagues at LVHN who have served our country and continue to serve our patients every day. Thank these colleagues, and congratulate Lefebvre on her special recognition. They makes us #LVHNProud.

NASCAR Star Visits LVHN – PHOTOS

BY AMANDA BIALEK · JULY 5, 2019

Born into a family built on love and racing, Ryan Blaney is proud to continue the family tradition as a third generation race car driver. With the number 10 tattooed over his heart, he is reminded of his late grandfather, Lou Blaney, who he strives to be like every day. “It was his number for his whole career,” says Blaney, who competes at NASCAR’s highest level for Team Penske. “He never changed his number.”

After losing his grandfather to Alzheimer’s, Blaney made it his mission to honor him by raising awareness of the disease. That’s why Blaney recently visited the Fleming Memory Center at LVH–17th Street. He learned about services and education available to the geriatric community and their caregivers at LVHN. Following the tour, he finished off the day meeting colleagues and patients at LVH–Cedar Crest.

N08440_FY19 Pocono Raceway-Ryan Blaney3

The 25-year-old formed the Ryan Blaney Family Foundation in 2018, an organization that supports causes that have directly impacted the family. Off the track, you can find Blaney using his platform to encourage others to share personal stories about loved ones who have been affected by the disease.

For Fleming Memory Center Director Cara Scheetz, it's always exciting to host a recognizable public figure. "Because of Ryan's popularity, we were able to reach so many more people," she says. "I think our common goal was to increase awareness for Alzheimer's disease through the Ryan Blaney Family Foundation and inform the public of resources available in our community such as the Fleming Center and our support team."

Colleagues, family members and patients waited in line to meet the NASCAR star at LVH–Cedar Crest. Handshakes were exchanged, stories about racing and loved ones were shared and photos were captured.

It was Blaney's final destination that sparked the biggest smiles of the day – saying hello to patients in Lehigh Valley Reilly Children's Hospital and giving them an autographed matchbox car. "I really enjoyed it," Blaney said. "It was an honor to meet everybody."
