LVHN has agreed to move almost 500 information services, enterprise analytics and clinical informatics colleagues to offices at Three City Center, part of Allentown's Neighborhood Improvement Zone (NIZ), beginning in November.

The colleagues will be moving from the 1245 and 1247 buildings in Cedar Crest Professional Park in Salisbury Township once LVHN's leases for those offices have expired. They will be moving into a total of 81,000 square feet of space across three floors in the downtown Allentown location. A long-term lease at Three City Center has been approved by LVHN's Board of Trustees.

“Thanks to favorable lease rates offered through the NIZ, LVHN will be able to reduce network operating expenses with this move,” says Brian Nester, DO, MBA, FACOEP, LVHN’s President and Chief Executive Officer. “It gives us the opportunity to move into state-of-the-art, energy-efficient office space, which will result in even more cost savings. It also helps us to establish more of an LVHN presence in the downtown Allentown area.”

In addition to providing services at LVH–17th Street since its founding in 1899, LVHN began its venture into the center city area in 2014 when it opened a 25,000-square-foot, state-of-the-art sports medicine, sports performance and fitness location at One City Center, a seven-story office building adjacent to the PPL Center arena. It occupies five floors and also includes sports medicine, sports nutrition, concussion management and rehabilitation services. Since then, several LVHN departments have moved to office space at One City Center.

Initially, 350 colleagues will be moving into two floors at Three City Center and be operational there by Nov. 1. Another 125 or more are expected to occupy a third floor by June 2018. Three City Center is just a block away from One City Center.

“From the beginning, LVHN has been committed to the revitalization effort that has been transforming downtown Allentown for a number of years now,” Nester says. “We’re honored to be able to play a role in that effort.”

“As the largest health care provider and employer in the region, LVHN plays a key economic development role in the Lehigh Valley and downtown Allentown. LVHN continues to take a major leadership role in the transformation of the city, and their commitment to the downtown Allentown community is vital,” says J.B. Reilly, Cofounder and President of City Center Investment Corp. “City Center is excited that LVHN has chosen to grow downtown, and we’re confident their employees will enjoy the vibrant environment here.”

According to FORTUNE magazine, Allentown is one of the “10 Best U.S. Cities for Finance and IT Operations.”

Richard Boulay, MD, to Make National TV Appearance

BY JENN FISHER · APRIL 27, 2017

One night in November 2016 after going to bed in pain, Mary Clancey woke up unable to walk. After eight hours in the emergency department and bloodwork that showed everything was normal, Clancey, now 71 years old, had a computed tomography (CT) scan. It revealed a very large abdominal mass. She was transferred to LVH–Cedar Crest, where gynecologic oncologist Richard Boulay, MD, with LVPG Gynecologic Oncology–1240 Cedar Crest, met her.

At that meeting, Boulay learned that Clancey had steadily gained weight since her 50s. “I thought I was destined to be a short, fat, round old lady,” she jokes.

Little did she know the mass in her abdomen weighed more than 100 pounds.

Clancey's remarkable story, which appears in the latest edition of LVHN's Healthy You magazine, will reach a national audience when Boulay appears on The Doctors syndicated television show. The program is scheduled to air Clancey's story on Wednesday, May 3.

- On WFMZ, The Doctors airs at 8 p.m.
- On KYW-TV, the show airs at 9 a.m.

Not sure you can trust your eyes? If you're walking past our auxiliary-run gift shops on May 3, you probably can't. That's when volunteers and staff morph into live mannequins at LVH–Cedar Crest and LVH–Muhlenberg to promote clothing and accessories by Noelle, honeyme, Coco + Carmen and other fashion lines.

“This is a fun way to create some buzz around our shops,” says Patrick Haftl, Gift Shop Manager. “We hope our live models will help bring out the ‘fashionista’ in our colleagues and the public. As always, proceeds support the hospital.”

LVH–Hazleton Receives SightLife™ Vision Award

BY LISA MARIE HALECKY · APRIL 24, 2017

LVH–Hazleton is the first in Pennsylvania to receive the SightLife™ Vision Award, which recognizes the hospital's commitment to cornea donation and advocacy.

LVH–Hazleton achieved a cornea donation conversion rate of more than 70 percent in 2016, according to SightLife, a global health organization focused on eliminating corneal blindness in the U.S. and around the world by 2040. Our nurses and other care providers work closely with SightLife liaisons to educate and offer as many families as possible the opportunity to donate and give the gift of sight. This collaboration ensures each wish to donate is fulfilled.

“We are proud that our partnership with Lehigh Valley Hospital–Hazleton has helped give the gift of sight to 31 individuals in 2016 through cornea donations made possible by their dedicated team of health care professionals,” says Monty Montoya, SightLife President and CEO. “This wouldn’t be possible without the selfless decision of donors and their families who give their support even in their darkest hour of losing a loved one.”

Millions of people around the world live in darkness due to corneal blindness, which is the loss of sight caused by disease or damage to the surface of the eye. Together, SightLife and its subsidiary, SightLife Surgical, are the largest providers of corneas for transplant in the world. In addition to meeting 100 percent of the demand in the U.S., SightLife works with global eye banks in more than 30 countries.
