

The food exposition: Great interest is manifested in this novel entertainment

The Morning Call

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarlyworks.lvhn.org/historicalarchives>

Part of the Medicine and Health Sciences Commons

---

Published In/Presented At

The food exposition: Great interest is manifested in this novel entertainment. (1894, November 16). The Morning Call.

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by LVHN Scholarly Works. It has been accepted for inclusion in LVHN Scholarly Works by an authorized administrator. For more information, please contact LibraryServices@lvhn.org.

THE FOOD EXPOSITION

Great Interest is Manifested in This Novel Entertainment.

AN ATTRACTIVE FEATURE

Miss Cross Delivered Another Interesting Lecture--Monday Will Be Red-ticket Day--Notes of the Exposition.

Another successful day at the Food Exposition has passed into history. There was a good attendance all day and evening. Every indication points to success to its close. A large number of the best citizens of Allentown and vicinity were noticed among the audiences. Everything is in first-class working order and a cordial reception was given to all by the courteous attendants at the different booths. The Hungarian Orchestra were attired in their pretty native costumes and their music, as usual, was par excellence. The feature of the entertainment given by these people is a daily change of program which, aside from the grand display, is worth many times the price of admission. In the spacious hall there is room enough for all, and the sight of the interested spectators as one enters upon the scene is strikingly interesting.

It is hoped that every one will avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing one of the grandest displays ever seen in this section, and in consideration of the price of admission being within the reach of all it is believed that there will be no abatement of interest up to the close of the exposition, and when that time comes it will be regretted that the time is not much longer.

MISS CROSS' LECTURE.

Miss Cross entertained another large audience of ladies at her cooking lecture yesterday afternoon. Incidental to the lecture a recipe was given for making a small soup. Miss Cross advised that cucumbers should never be eaten raw. As to mushrooms, she considered them decidedly nutritious. These lectures are a great feature of the exposition and the pleasing manner in which they are delivered adds materially to the interest displayed.

New entrées—Chicken chops: Put into a sauce pan one-half pint of stock, mix two tablespoonful of flour with one of butter, stir it into the stock till it forms a thick mixture, take it from the fire, add to it one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one of salt, a dash of cayenne pepper, a little nutmeg, the yolk of one egg and one pint of chopped chicken; stand away until cool enough to form into shape; when cool form into shape, dip and fry.

Cucumbers stuffed with chicken: Pare cucumbers, let them stand in water for twenty minutes, cut into slices an inch long, remove the seeds with a knife, put them in boiling water, add a teaspoonful of salt and let them cook slowly for about fifteen minutes; cut slices of bread the same size as the cucumbers, put them in the oven until they are a golden brown, lift the slices of cucumber and place each on a crouton; fill with the chicken chop mixture and pour over the cream sauce.

Cream sauce: Put one ounce of butter into a sauce pan as soon as it melts, add to it one tablespoonful of flour, rub to a smooth paste, add one-half pint of milk and let it come to a boil; add one-half teaspoonful of salt mixed with a dash of pepper.

Olives a la Bor de laise: Remove the stones from 25 olives and take a small piece of the chicken chop mixture and put in the olive and fold it around; put into the chafing dish one tablespoonful of butter, add to it one tablespoonful of flour and add a half pint of stock, one tablespoonful of chopped, uncooked ham, a slice of onion, a tablespoonful of tomato catsup and a tablespoonful of mushroom catsup and let it simmer for ten minutes; strain the liquid, return it to the dish and add the olives when they are thoroughly heated. Dish and serve immediately.

Mushroom sauce: Take one tablespoonful of butter, add to it one tablespoonful of flour, half pint of stock. As soon as it boils add twelve fresh mushrooms and let them simmer for ten minutes. Remove from the fire and add the yolk of one egg.

A SPECIAL ATTRACTION.

The special attraction at the Food Exposition for Monday, November 19, will be a novel concert program by the Hungarian Orchestra, quartet singing by the Kemp Quartet and a "Surprise Box" to be guessed for by visitors. Every firm exhibiting in the exposition has contributed a number of articles, the exact quantity being known only to the manager. Every visitor to the hall on a paid ticket of admission, will be given a blank slip of paper on which they can write their guess as to the number of articles contained in the box. The latter will be placed on exhibition in THE MORNING CARES Hospital Fund Booth, where all can see and exercise their ingenuity on the contents of the same. The value of this offering is $25. The visitor to the exposition on "Red Letter Day" who guesses nearest the actual number of articles receives the "Hospital Fund Surprise Box." These novelties are sure to attract a large crowd Monday, even if the citizens of Allentown should not care to help along the fund.

FOOD SHOW DOGS.

When the Hungarian Orchestra plays the "Princess Bonnie Waltz" and "Some Body Loves Me," and they receive requests to play each of these numbers daily, the public applaud and applaud until the welkin rings.

W. H. Baker, of the famous chocolate firm came up from New York last night and witnessed the attraction their big crimson booth proved to the public.

Not even the big counter attraction—"The Story of the Reformation," could cut down the crowds at the exposition last night.

The "Model Dining-Room" is set to-day for a chrysanthemum tea and looks charming.

Leonard Kemp, the popular official decorator, is fully recovered from his recent illness and is at work still further beautifying the booths.

C. L. Brown, of Mr. Buckley's staff, has gone to Philadelphia on a business trip.

H. G. Tombler, of the E. G. Tombler Grocery Company, Easton, and who was an exhibitor in the recent Easton Food Exposition, came over on Wednesday to inspect our affair. He was delighted. Another Easton visitor was Landlord Horn, of the Franklin House. He thought this a beautiful show.

Manager Buckley is in Shmokin, Pottsville and Wilkes-Barre to-day, arranging details of the proposed expositions there.

Paul Livingood is so well pleased with results of his exhibit here that he has engaged space for all the other Food Expositions to be held by the Keystone Exposition Company this winter.

Col. John Birkenstock, the genial "Sunrise" and "Sunset" brewer, is a member of the Reception Committee and common report says the finest-looking man on that organization.

Representative Holland is making a success of the Trolley Soap booth. It is diamond shape and is called the Koh-i-noor, by other exhibitors. The Messrs. Elkinton, of Philadelphia, make this soap and aptly claim it is an improvement over all other soaps.

Monday is "Red Ticket Day." The proceeds go to help build a hospital. All should go then.

Saturday night there will be a number of new attractions. The most important is a pumpkin seed guessing contest that is open to every visitor. He or she will be given a card as they enter the door. On this they can write their guess on the seeds enclosed in a big pumpkin that rests on the corner of the stage. The one that comes nearest gets a barrel of flour; second nearest, a box of assorted food products; third nearest a large 30-pound bag of Worcester salt. These contests are gotten up by the exhibitors and in other cities prove very great showing cards.

One of the handsomest, best-managed and most attractive booths in the Van Houten Cocoa booth, presided over by a charming Pittsburg young lady who is a modest as she is bright; and that's saying considerable.