

The food exposition [has come and gone]

The Morning Call

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarlyworks.lvhn.org/historicalarchives>

Part of the Medicine and Health Sciences Commons

Published In/Presented At

The food exposition. (1894, November 26). The Morning Call.

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by LVHN Scholarly Works. It has been accepted for inclusion in LVHN Scholarly Works by an authorized administrator. For more information, please contact LibraryServices@lvhn.org.

The Food Exposition

The Food Exposition has come and gone. It was something new for Allentown and novel as well. The attendance was large and those who visited the exhibition were both instructed and entertained. The annual Food Exposition will become as much of an institution as the annual County Fair.

THE MORNING CRITIC takes this opportunity of extending its thanks to Manager Buckley for his kindness and generosity in tendering a booth for the sale of articles for the benefit of THE MORNING CRITIC hospital fund, as well as the proceeds derived from the sale of the red tickets on Monday last for the same purpose. This was an act entirely unexpected by the publishers of THE MORNING CRITIC. Mr. Buckley came here as a stranger. The people of Allentown had no claims upon him. He endorsed the efforts this paper is making to secure an hospital for Allentown; and his endorsement was of a nature that helps to swell the fund.

There are too many people who sympathize with any movement for sweet charity's sake so long as that sympathy doesn't affect their pocket book. When dollars and cents are mentioned their sympathy vanishes like the mist before the morning sun. Such people can find an object lesson in the action of the manager of the late Food Exposition.

Will they profit by it?

