Hospital Holds Cancer Center Grand Opening

On Nov. 29 and 30 and Dec. 1, over 2,000 "family" members helped Lehigh Valley Hospital open a new chapter in cancer care as Lehigh Valley Hospital dedicated the John and Dorothy Morgan Cancer Center. This regional outpatient facility will provide cancer patients and their families with cancer prevention, detection, diagnosis, treatment, rehabilitation and support services in one location.

"We are in an era of fundamental change in healthcare and the John and Dorothy Morgan Cancer Center points the way through that change," Dr. Sussman explained to the opening night audience of nearly 300.

"The desire to provide comprehensive cancer services under one roof has inspired countless persons — doctors and nurses, administrators, builders, former patients and their families — to build the John and Dorothy Morgan Cancer Center," remarked Irwin Greenberg, chairman of Lehigh Valley Hospital's Board of Trustees, at the building dedication on Nov. 29.

The cancer center occupies more than 36,000 square feet in the below-ground and ground floors of a multi-story medical office building at Cedar Crest & I-78. Plans to build the facility were announced in February 1992 with construction beginning in September.

The sub-ground level includes state-of-the-art radiation therapy areas equipped with two high-energy and one low-energy linear accelerators that offer a range of options to match each patient's particular diagnosis and therapeutic needs. This includes stereotactic radiosurgery for the treatment of brain tumors and other disorders that cannot be treated through conventional surgery. Administrative offices and the hospital's tumor registry also occupy this level.

The ground floor contains a multi-purpose treatment area; patient support services; patient and family education and counseling rooms where the Breast Cancer Support Group and other similar services are offered; conference space for the Breast Cancer Consultative Service and other second opinion services; patient and medical libraries; and an office of the American Cancer Society. Smoking cessation instruction and prostate cancer screenings and the computerized Cancer Risk Assessment services will be delivered by a multidisciplinary team of healthcare professionals.

Each year, Lehigh Valley Hospital's cancer specialists treat nearly 1,700 of the 6,450 newly diagnosed cancer patients in the hospital's service area.

"Our First" Celebrates Its First

"Our First", Lehigh Valley Hospital's educational program for expectant first-time parents, marked its first year in operation with a baby shower for nearly 100 mothers and fathers-to-be.

The staff of WomanCare coordinated and hosted the festive event which featured information booths, games, refreshments and gifts.

During the shower, guests had the opportunity to learn about maternal-childbirth health issues including prenatal care, exercise and fitness, poison prevention, car and toy safety and immunizations. They were also invited to enroll in courses offered by WomanCare for prospective and new parents and their families.

Among the highlights of the shower were games in which would-be dads competed to see who could diaper a baby the fastest and estimate the length of string needed to circle their pregnant wives' midsections. (You had to be there!)

Guests who followed a series of numbered Our First footprints from one information booth to the next were eligible for special prizes including an infant car safety seat and a homemade quilt. Everyone who attended received gifts valued at $20 from participating Our First merchants.

To date, more than 600 expectant parents have enjoyed the benefits of free membership in Our First, a program for couples who plan to begin their families at Lehigh Valley Hospital. Among the services offered by the program are help in finding a doctor, an informative monthly newsletter from the third month of pregnancy until the baby's first birthday, discounts on goods and services from area merchants, and the Storkline, a 24-hour telephone information line staffed by nursing professionals who can answer the most commonly asked questions of first-time parents. ■

CheckUp is a biweekly employee publication of Lehigh Valley Hospital, Public Relations, 1243 S. Cedar Crest Blvd., Allentown, PA 18103. Interoffice mail submissions should be addressed to 1243SCC-PR. For additional information, call extension 3000. Lehigh Valley Hospital is an equal opportunity employer. M/F/D/V

The cancer center is named after John and Dorothy Morgan of Andreas, PA. The Morgans gave the hospital $5 million for the construction of the building. John Morgan founded and operated the John E. Morgan Knitting Mills until 1984.

The $27 million project required 1,200 tons of steel, which was furnished by the Bethlehem plant of Bethlehem Steel. The Alvin H. Butz Company managed the construction project that used more than 90 local contractors.

Hospital's Annual Meeting Held Dec. 1

Lehigh Valley Hospital's Board of Trustees reviewed the year's accomplishments at its annual public meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 1 and welcomed Elliot J. Sussman, MD, the hospital's new chief executive.

Irwin Greenberg, board chairman, cited the recruitment of Sussman as one of the Board's most important accomplishments. "The challenge of this Board has never been clearer or more dramatic, nor have we been able to agree so confidently on our executive leadership," noted Greenberg.

Greenberg and fellow trustees Dick Fleming and Frank Ryan guided the hospital from the Office of the President during the six-month search for the new chief executive.

Greenberg also praised the Board for the steps it took this year to improve governance. These steps included reaffirming the organization mission, vision and values; continuing to scale back on the size of the Board to make it more effective; recruiting key members; restructuring committees; and increasing efforts to gain Board and medical staff consensus on key governance issues.

During the meeting Sussman highlighted the hospital's major goals and outlined the formidable challenges linked with providing quality, cost-effective care, conducting valuable clinical research and educating physicians, nurses and other healthcare professionals.

Sussman also noted that this annual meeting was special for him because it was his first, having become Lehigh Valley Hospital's president and chief executive office less than 100 days ago.

"I've met people in this hospital whose behavior and performance on the job have reaffirmed for me the unique strengths that make this organization the community asset that it is," Sussman said. "These qualities are versatility, commitment, compassion, experience and standards of excellence."

The Board welcomed Samuel Bub, MD, a family practitioner as a new member and Edward J. Donley as a Trustee emeritus. They thanked retiring members Walter J. Dex, MD, Ramon J. Deeb, MD, Alfred E. Douglass III, Carl R. Maio and Mary Ellen Poe for their many years of dedication to the organization.

The meeting also provided an opportunity to publicly thank 33 donors for their generosity to the hospital, with a number of donors receiving special honor for their contributions. ■

SAFE KIDS Promotes Bicycle Helmet Use

One of the most popular gifts for children during the holiday season is a bicycle, and Lehigh Valley Hospital, in conjunction with the SAFE KIDS Coalition, is working hard to make sure all bike riders are properly protected.

On Nov. 22, the SAFE KIDS Coalition introduced its Holiday Bike Helmet Program during a media conference at Lehigh Valley Hospital. The Coalition, a group of injury prevention professionals and concerned citizens, promoted the use of bicycle helmets and urged the public to purchase bicycle helmets through a discount program provided by local merchants.

Hospital physicians Robert Morrow, MD, co-medical director for the Neurosciences Center and Tamar Earnest, MD, trauma surgeon, spoke at the conference on the problems of head injuries and fatalities. Alverta Stichter, RN, administrator, Neurosciences Center, and a member of the SAFE KIDS Coalition, coordinated the event for the hospital.

Pat Kubik, "Helmet Lady" for the Allentown Health Bureau, gave a demonstration on the proper way to wear a bicycle helmet. Kubik also advised purchasers to look for helmets

■ Nightingale Scholarship

Nightingale Awards of Pennsylvania, a non-profit foundation dedicated to retaining and recruiting nurses in Pennsylvania, invites qualified candidates to apply for scholarships to pursue an education in nursing. Applications must be postmarked Feb. 1, 1994 and scholarships will be awarded in the spring. To qualify you must be a resident of Pennsylvania, have attained a GPA of at least 2.5, attend or plan to attend a nursing school in Pennsylvania which prepares the individual to become a practical nurse or a registered nurse or be in a nursing program for an entry level position, not an advanced degree. Applications can be obtained from any Patient Care Services or in the office of Professional Development, GSB, CC&I-78. If you have any questions, call Professional Development at ext. 1704.

■ Children's Christmas Party

The Children's Christmas Party will be held Saturday, Dec. 11 in Classrooms 1, 2 and 3 at Cedar Crest & I-78 from 2-4 p.m. A magician will perform magic tricks and refreshments will be served. Santa Claus will stop by to greet all the children. Watch for flyers and a sign up sheet.

■ Bloodmobile Visit

Lehigh Valley Hospital has arranged with the Miller Memorial Blood Bank to have a bloodmobile at Cedar Crest & I-78 on Tuesday, Dec. 14 from 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. The bloodmobile will be located in Classrooms 2 and 3. Any employee interested in donating may sign the registration form posted in their department or contact the Employee Health Office at ext. 8869 to schedule a time to donate.

■ A Reminder from Human Resources: Mini Flex Open Enrollment

- The deadline for Group Universal Life insurance for the guaranteed issue amount was Nov. 19. Enrollment forms are still being accepted, but may be subject to medical review.
- The deadline for the 1994 Flexible Spending Account enrollment is Dec. 24, 1993.
- To offer part-time employees an additional benefit, employees scheduled at least 16 hours per week will be eligible to participate in the Health Care Flexible Spending Account (HCFSAs) without being enrolled in the Lehigh Valley Health Network, Inc. Health Plan. If you have specific questions or need additional information on these benefits, please contact Mariyane Zanders at ext. 1230; Gerriane Keiser at ext. 8839; or Leilani Souders at ext. 8807.

■ Adopt a Family for Christmas

Any department interested in adopting a family for Christmas can call Susan Friend in Community Health at ext. 7455 for details. There are families with needy children that attend the Central Elementary School in Allentown.

■ Mittens and Gloves for Christmas

The Professional Nurse Council is collecting gloves and mittens for the children of Central School — 600 pairs to be exact! PNC is asking for unisex style gloves for children ages 5-12. You can hang the unwrapped items on the Christmas trees located in the cafeterias at CC & I-78 and 17th & Chew. If it's more convenient, you can drop items off at any patient care unit. Deadline is Dec. 17. Call Carol Sorrentino (4B) at ext. 8759 or Maryann Krobath (3-11 supervisor) at ext. 8252 with any questions.

■ Hospice Holiday Giving Program

As part of its annual holiday giving program, workers at Lehigh Valley Hospice and Lehigh Valley Home Care have identified a particular young family whom they would like to help during the holiday season. Food, clothing and monetary donations would all be greatly appreciated. Items may be dropped off at the offices located at 2166 S. 12th Street. For details, please call Charlotte Gross at ext. 7450.

■ Security Notes

To improve employee security in areas around the hospital buildings, Security will place additional temporary lighting in the parking lots at the west end of CC & I-78 (near the day care center), increasing security during change of shifts and changing general patrolling patterns. Employees can also take advantage of the hospital's escort service by paging Security at ext. 8999. ■

Lehigh Valley Hospital Psychiatrist Specializes in Obstetrics Cases

As many as 20 percent of women experience emotional, psychological or psychiatric difficulties associated with pregnancy. The Mental Health Center at Lehigh Valley Hospital has appointed a psychiatrist to specialize in evaluating and treating women who suffer such problems.

Paul F. Haley, MD joins the center's consultation and liaison team, which treats patients who suffer from emotional complications of medical conditions. The hospital's consultation and liaison service is the only one of its kind in the Lehigh Valley. Haley's primary focus will be on expectant and new mothers who develop or have a history of emotional disorders. These may include anxiety, postpartum depression, clinical depression or substance abuse. He will also help patients cope with issues of premenstrual syndrome (PMS), infertility, morning sickness, sexual abuse and trauma.

Pregnant women who suffer from emotional stress-related illnesses require special attention because some of these afflictions can be a threat to the health of the fetus. Haley will work with the women and their obstetricians to ensure their patients and babies remain healthy throughout pregnancy. In addition, Haley will be available to diagnose and treat women suffering postpartum depression, a common condition of new mothers. He will offer counseling and psychotherapy, and prescribe medication, if necessary. Haley will also be involved in educating resident physicians specializing in obstetrics and gynecology.

Haley received his medical degree from the University of Massachusetts Medical School and completed a psychiatric residency at the University of Connecticut School of Medicine, Farmington, Conn. He was chief resident at Hartford Hospital, Hartford, Conn., in the psychiatric consultation and liaison service and again in the psychiatry inpatient service. ■

Designated Smoking Areas for Employees

Effective Monday, Nov. 8, 1993, smoking by employees is permitted only in the following areas:

17th & Chew:

- Outside stairwell exit of the hospital bounded by the intersection of West and Chew streets.
- School of Nursing: north and south picnic areas at either end of the facility

Cedar Crest & I-78:

- Covered exit-way northwest and contiguous to the loading dock area
- Picnic area adjacent to west exit, General Services Building.

Employees are prohibited from smoking in all other areas, i.e., outside the Emergency Room at CC & I-78 and the former Shock Trauma Trailer exit. It is the responsibility of all supervisors and managers to enforce this policy without exception. A revised policy on tobacco use which reaffirms these designated smoking areas will be distributed. ■

Mother-Baby Nursing

A Coordinated Approach to Care

Mother-baby nursing. It sounds and seems simple enough. Yet, this novel approach to infant/maternal care is making a profound difference for patients and staff in the Mother/Baby Unit (MBU) at Lehigh Valley Hospital.

Perhaps the most obvious benefit of mother-baby nursing is improved communication between new moms and the nurses assigned to care for them and their babies.

Carol Diehl, RN, MSN, MSED, director of patient care services for the MBU illustrates the point.

"In the past, if a mother had a question about her baby, the post-partum nurse might not know the answer and have to refer it to a nurse in the nursery.

"Now, the nurse doesn't need to ask anyone. She knows the answer because she's taking care of both the mother and the baby."

Mother-baby nursing also contributes to a mother's confidence in her infant care skills, according to Diehl. "Most infant care takes place in the mother's room," she says. "Because the nurse explains things as she cares for the baby, the mother learns the baby's special signals for 'I'm hungry,' or 'Please cuddle me.' "

This arrangement also allows mothers to respond more quickly when their babies are hungry. When babies are in the nursery, it can be 20 to 30 minutes before the nurse has time to take the baby to the mother, especially if several babies become hungry at the same time. Breast feeding is likely to get off to a better start when babies are able to feed on demand.

Mother-baby nursing, which was implemented on a gradual basis beginning in June 1992, provides the most personalized kind of care a hospital can offer.

One nurse per shift cares for both mother and baby. And, each morning the nurse helps the mother plan her day. Together, they decide about physical care, learning needs, rest time and other activities on an individual basis.

Diehl observes that both patients and staff have adapted well to this approach to treatment.

"It has been a big adjustment but we're encouraged by the response and the results," she says. ■

Latex Glove Allergy

Latex exam gloves have recently been identified as a potential source of allergens. Although the exact cause has not been determined, it is believed that certain individuals react to the products used in the rubber making process.

For healthcare personnel, the risk of an allergic reaction to latex is anywhere from 6-14 percent, as compared to only one percent for the general public.

In response to this occupational hazard, a committee representing members from Nursing, Laboratory, Employee Health, Purchasing and Safety developed a protocol for individuals who experience a potential reaction to latex. To receive a copy of the set of protocol or if you have any questions or concerns, please call Employee Health at ext. 8869 (CC & I-78) or ext. 2289 (17th & Chew). ■

Professional Nurse Council Embodies Spirit of Giving

The holidays are steeped in tradition — families stringing lights about their homes, children reciting their wish lists to Santa, friends and relatives gathering for fun and tasty foods.

At Lehigh Valley Hospital, the Professional Nurse Council has established a few traditions of its own, several of which will brighten the holidays for needy children and their families.

Instead of shiny ornaments and musical figurines, the council's Community Outreach Committee has decorated trees in the cafeterias at both hospital sites with mittens and gloves. The "Knits for Kids" will be distributed to children at Central Elementary School in Allentown. Anyone who would like to support this effort can add their donations to the trees or drop them off on any patient care unit.

More than 25 patient care units and other departments throughout the hospital will also participate in a unique benefit coordinated by the outreach committee. Each will "adopt" an area family and, like modern-day Santas, deliver food, clothing and gifts to their homes.

"We have a lot to be grateful for," says Gloria Hamm, RN, a staff nurse in the burn center and chairperson of the Professional Nurse Council. "Through our community outreach committee, we try to respond to the needs of families who are less fortunate."

In addition to holiday activities, the outreach committee, other council members and members of the entire nursing staff routinely provide health screenings and services to students at Central School, administer flu shots to the elderly with vaccines provided by Spectrum Apothecary, offer quarterly community blood pressure screenings and coordinate and staff the health tent at May Daze.

The council also augments the efforts of the Good Samaritan Committee of the Coalition for Affordable Housing in the Lehigh Valley. These include drives for school supplies and household and personal items which are distributed by the Lehigh Valley Food Bank.

The Community Outreach Committee, one of four sub-committees of the Professional Nurse Council, is co-chaired by Carol Sorrentino, RN, a clinical nurse facilitator, and Maryann Krobath, RN, a nursing supervisor. The council itself is composed of nurses, Public Relations, Human Resources and Medical Staff representatives, and consumers who develop, implement and coordinate a wide range of activities designed for the recognition and promotion of professional nursing. ■

Seasoned Greetings!

Hospital Family to Gather for Holiday Dinner

'Tis the season to be jolly. And with good reason! On Wednesday, Dec. 15 and Thursday, Dec. 16, the food services staff will host a Victorian holiday dinner for employees, clergy, volunteers, and members of the medical staff.

Dinner will be served on Wednesday from 11 a.m. - 7 p.m. and on Thursday from 1 - 4 a.m. and 11 a.m. - 7 p.m. at both hospital sites. The menu will include soup and salad bar, assorted holiday breads, prime rib of beef au jus, holiday glazed ham (Wednesday only), herb roasted chicken half (Thursday only), corn pudding, seasoned red bliss potatoes, roast green beans with shallots, glazed whole baby carrots, fresh apple cider, egg nog and other beverages, and a melange of French roulade pastries.

To receive your complimentary meal, please remember to bring along your ID badge and dinner ticket. As in the past, there will be drawings for door prizes. Be sure to fill out the entry form that accompanied the dinner ticket and deposit it in the collection box in the cafeteria at either site. Winners will be notified and their names will also be posted in the hospital cafeterias. ■

All submissions must be on the attached form and must include the employee's name, department and a daytime telephone number. Submissions without this information will be discarded. Only employees, volunteers and staff physicians may submit items for publication.

Marketplace ads may be run for only two consecutive months, and must be submitted for each edition of Marketplace. We reserve the right to reject, revise or edit submissions and publication does not constitute an endorsement of product or service. Deadline for submissions is the last day of the preceding publication.
