

Informed Consent: The How, the Why Now and the Opportunity

Recently, the topic of informed consent has taken front stage in our offices and hospital settings and across Pennsylvania. Informed consent refers to a process by which a treating provider discloses appropriate information to a patient so that he or she may make a voluntary choice to accept or refuse treatment. As this definition implies, informed consent is more than signing a consent form. It is a process. This is a process most of us learned, and were asked to perform, early in our medical training. It is one we have likely performed thousands of times during our careers. So why has informed consent become a renewed topic of discussion in health care and our clinical setting?

The reason relates to a recent ruling by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in a malpractice case, Shinal v. Toms. The patient (Shinal) in this case underwent a surgical procedure that involved a complication. Her lawsuit was predicated less on the complication than the fact that she never received appropriate informed consent from her surgeon prior to going to the operating room.

The rules and expectations for informed consent in Pennsylvania are based on the Medical Care Availability and Reduction of Error (MCARE) Act. This law makes it clear that the physician who is doing a procedure/surgery, and only that physician, is able to perform the informed consent. In this case, it was clear consent was performed not by the surgeon (Toms), but by his physician assistant. Although the patient lost the malpractice suit originally – after several appeals grounded on the inadequate consent process – the patient was granted a retrial in June of this year. This ruling and retrial alerted the medical community to the risk involved with not performing informed consent by the book.

At Lehigh Valley Health Network, we perform well over 50,000 surgical procedures annually and do tens of thousands of other procedures in both the inpatient and outpatient settings, each requiring informed consent. In reviewing the expectations for consent, it is clear that we are by and large compliant in this process. Quality assurance tools such as check-off lists assure that appropriate steps, including a properly signed consent, are completed before any patient enters an operating room.

Still, I believe, certain system stressors have threatened the consent process and the one-on-one interaction that is imperative during this process. Demand for the services and the expertise of our outstanding physicians have made access a challenge, driving us to see more patients while inevitably having less time with them. The push toward standardization and system-based care, which includes bundles structured around clinical teams as opposed to the individual physician, have also affected the more traditional interactions between patients and their doctors. Finally, financial stressors and expectations – both at the level of the network and also us as individuals – have influenced patient volume, prioritized efficiency over connection and also undoubtedly altered the nature of patient-physician communication.

Regardless of the reasons not to do so, not properly consenting a patient prior to a surgery or procedure carries with it significant medical-legal risk for the physician and really the physician alone. Importantly, as we counsel a patient before a procedure, we must remember that we are the only ones who have the knowledge, expertise, experience and most importantly the wisdom to provide informed consent. Although other members of our teams can provide information and education, we as the physicians actually performing and overseeing the case must be willing to explore the patient's understanding of the operating room plan. It involves more than simply reviewing the steps of the procedure, risks, benefits and alternatives, but also examining the patient's expectations, beliefs and fears regarding the procedure. These less tangible but important elements of care can only be dealt with through a direct dialogue and two-way exchange between the physician and the patient.

Perhaps there are some positives, however, as this situation may be a wakeup call of sorts. With the aforementioned stressors, really owning informed consent may force us to slow down and show more patience with patients. This patience and a mindful, personal interaction may also improve the patient experience. It may also increase our inpatient HCAHPs survey scores in the area of "communication with physicians," where we continue to have an opportunity to improve.

The reality is the rules and the expectations for providing informed consent in Pennsylvania, even with the Shinal v. Toms case, have not changed. These were always the rules and they have merely been re-emphasized. Based on this ruling, we are now in the process of reviewing our current systems to assure we are compliant in the processes of obtaining consent with the goal of protecting patients but also our doctors. This may be a stressor on our systems and even result in delays. Yet, the process of providing proper consent is a reminder that the foundation for medicine is based on an interaction and connection; a connection between a single doctor and a single patient. Embracing this connection through properly providing informed consent is the way we will ensure we are providing the best care, supporting the patient experience and maintaining humanity in the practice of medicine.

Cancer Institute Symposium: Partnership with Primary Care

The First Annual Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) Cancer Institute Symposium, Partnership with Primary Care, will take place on Friday, Oct. 13, 8:15 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at Camelback Lodge in Tannersville.

The program is designed for interprofessional staff. Session topics and presenters include:

- Memorial Sloan Kettering Alliance with LVHN: Excellence in Cancer Care for the Local Community – David Pfister, MD
- Molecular Testing and Precision Medicine – Paul Sabbatini, MD
- Immunotherapy Revolution: Promise, Limitations, Frontiers – Suresh Nair, MD
- Immunotherapy Toxicities: Awareness, Recognition and Management – Mandy Hendricks, MSN, RN, AOCNS
- Lung Cancer Screening and Innovations in Diagnosis and Treatment – Eliot Friedman, MD
- Precision Radiation Therapy: Utilizing Edge Radiosurgery – Sean Quinlan-Davidson, MD
- Robotic Surgery – Martin Martino, MD
- Colon and Rectal Cancers: Screening and Treatment Management – Robert Sinnott, DO
- Updates in Breast Cancer – Krista Bott, MD
- Innovative Surgical Options for Pancreatic Cancer – Aaron Blackham, MD
- Head and Neck Cancer Treatment at LVHN: Excellence in Care for the Patient and Community – Chetan Nayak, MD
- Management of Benign Hematologic Conditions in Coordination With Primary Care – Adam Kotkiewicz, MD
- Diagnosis and Management of Thromboembolism and Thrombosis – William Scialla, DO

LVHN designates this live educational activity for a maximum 7.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits.[™] Registered nurses attending the entire program and completing the evaluation tool will receive 7.0 contact hours.

To register, go to go.activecalendar.com/lvhn-doe and search for the event by title or date. On-site registrations may be available if space permits.

Influenza Vaccination Update

No matter your role in our health network, we all share the same mission – to heal, comfort and care. To do your job to the best of your ability, you first have to take care of yourself. As flu season approaches, one of the best ways you can help our patients avoid influenza infection is to get a flu shot.

The Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) Medical Executive Committee requires all Medical and Allied Health Professionals who have routine or intermittent patient contact get a flu shot. All Medical and Allied Health Professional Staff are considered to have patient contact. Those who cannot be vaccinated because of a valid medical or religious reason must submit an exemption request, obtainable from any Employee Health Services office, by Nov 1. These individuals must be granted an exemption or be vaccinated by Nov. 23. Those approved for a permanent exemption in prior years do NOT need to request an exemption again this year. Failure to comply with the immunization policy will result in a written warning. All Medical and Allied Health Professional Staff and other staff with patient contact who are not vaccinated or granted an exemption within two weeks of the warning, will be subject to termination.

Submission of documentation of influenza vaccine received outside the auspices of LVHN employee health is required. Proof of vaccination can be submitted by accessing the electronic form at LVHN Intranet, Colleague Resources, Influenza Information or using this link:

<http://webapprd001.lvh.com/webpublic2/swipesignf/fluProof1.aspx>.

For Lehigh Valley Hospital (LVH)–Cedar Crest, fax to 610-402-1203.

For LVH–Hazleton, fax to 570-501-4721.

For LVH–Schuylkill, fax to 570-621-4257.

If you fax your proof of vaccination, the document must include printed name, date of vaccination, and either your computer user ID (used to sign into LVHN computers) or your social security number. This is to assure your vaccine is properly documented in the tracking system.

There are several places you can get a free flu shot:

- Employee Health Services locations during walk-in hours
- Vaccination clinics
- On units and in practices that participate in our peer vaccination program (LVH–Cedar Crest, LVH–17th Street and LVH–Muhlenberg only)
- LVPG membership meetings

Do your part – get a flu shot and help create a safer health network, a more confident workforce and a healthier community. Thank you for your commitment to our colleagues, patients and community, and for helping to make our mission possible. For more information regarding the flu vaccine requirement, please contact Carol Guanowsky, Director, Employee Health Services, at 610-402-8869.

LVHN Lung Cancer Community Forum Set

The public can learn about the latest advances in the care, screening, treatment and management of lung cancer from Lehigh Valley Health Network health care providers and researchers during a free community forum, A Breath of Fresh Air, on Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 4 p.m. It will be held at Kasych Family Pavilion ECC Rooms 6, 7 and 8 at Lehigh Valley Hospital–Cedar Crest.

The event will be moderated by hematologist oncologist Eliot Friedman, MD, of LVPG Hematology Oncology. Featured speakers and topics are:

- Suzanne Smith, MBA, RRT, patient services – Smoking cessation
- Ken Cavorsi, MD, diagnostic radiologist – Lung cancer screening (CT)
- Brian Patson, MD, hematologist oncologist – Advances in immunotherapy treatment for lung cancer and clinical trials
- Richard Chang, MD, thoracic surgeon – Robotic and minimally invasive surgery
- Dennis Sopka, MD, radiation oncologist, and Maritza Chicas, RN, BSN, OCN, oncology nurse navigator – The role of the multidisciplinary clinic

The event is sponsored by Highmark Foundation and a light dinner will be provided. Seating is limited, RSVP is encouraged. Register at 888-402-LVHN or visit LVHN.org/lunginfo.

LVHN Announces Formation of Cancer, Heart, Surgery Institutes

In September, Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) announced a significant endeavor in terms of regional care and innovation, one designed to increase its commitment to combating cancer, heart disease and conditions that require surgery – the LVHN Cancer Institute, the LVHN Heart Institute and the LVHN Institute for Special Surgery.

The formation of these institutes enables LVHN to focus on conditions and services that impact many members of the community, as well as create better patient experiences and outcomes.

“We are focusing on cancer and heart disease because they are the top two causes of death in the U.S. as well as our region,” says Brian Nester, DO, MBA, FACOEP, LVHN’s President and Chief Executive Officer. “LVHN leads the fight against these diseases as well as other serious conditions that require surgery. Patients can remain close to home for high-quality care for these specialized services.”

LVHN Cancer Institute

People with cancer can have confidence knowing they have access to hundreds of lifesaving and breakthrough clinical trials through LVHN’s partnership with Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Institute and other clinical relationships. Patients can receive surgical precision and comprehensive expertise through our multidisciplinary clinics for skin and soft tissue, upper gastrointestinal, breast, prostate, lung and esophageal, and soon head and neck cancers.

LVHN Heart Institute

People with heart conditions can take comfort knowing LVHN has the most experienced cardiologists and cardiac surgeons in the region, and consistently ranks in the nation’s top 1 percent for heart attack survival. Consider LVHN was the first in the region to perform transcatheter aortic valve replacement (TAVR) and is recognized as a center for performing complex mitral valve surgery repair. LVHN provides specialized programs for women’s heart health, sports cardiology, advanced heart failure, mechanical heart assist, lead extraction, peripheral vascular and venous care, and rhythm disturbance care.

LVHN Institute for Special Surgery

People who have serious illnesses that require surgery can be assured that our surgeons have the most experience in the region, specializing in robotic and minimally invasive surgery for chest, cancer, obesity, esophageal reflux, colon and rectal conditions, hernia surgery, and more. LVHN’s emphasis on minimally invasive, leading-edge technologies, such as robotic surgery, allows patients to return to their work and lives more quickly.

Institute structure

Lehigh Valley Hospital (LVH)–Cedar Crest will host the three institutes and serve as the hub where innovation, research and education originate. LVH–Muhlenberg, LVH–Hazleton, LVH–Schuylkill and LVH–Pocono will be members of each institute and provide patients with more convenient access to the institute's distinct services and expertise in their respective communities.

To learn more about the three new LVHN clinical institutes and other services, visit LVHN.org/institutes.

LVH–Cedar Crest Earns Baby-Friendly Designation

Lehigh Valley Hospital (LVH)–Cedar Crest has met the criteria to be designated a “baby-friendly” hospital and birthing center by Baby-Friendly USA and the Baby-Friendly Hospital Initiative, a program that’s been supported internationally by the World Health Organization (WHO) and the United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF) since 1991.

LVH–Cedar Crest is one of 447 hospitals and birthing centers across the country and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico to hold a baby-friendly designation. The designation is awarded to health facilities that are dedicated to improving the care of pregnant women, mothers and newborns by promoting and supporting the breastfeeding of babies as the best start in life. Clinical evidence has indicated both long- and short-term health benefits for lactating women and their newborns.

“Being named a WHO Baby-Friendly Hospital continues our legacy as a provider of quality health care,” says Mary Bianchi, LVHN Vice President, Women and Children’s Service Line. “We provide support and education for all women so they understand the unique benefits of breast milk and breastfeeding. No matter what feeding method a woman chooses, we will respect her choice.”

The goal of WHO and UNICEF is to increase the proportion of live births that occur in health facilities worldwide that provide care for lactating mothers and their babies. Almost 870,000 births occur annually at baby-friendly facilities in the U.S. There were 4,500 births at LVH–Cedar Crest during the 2017 fiscal year. On a typical day, you would find an average of 50 mothers and babies on the mother-baby unit.

Tips and Tools for Managing the Business Side of Health Care

The Lehigh Valley Physician Hospital Organization (LVPHO) has introduced a new quarterly information session on a broad selection of topics helpful to our LVPHO Member Physicians and Advanced Practice Clinicians (APCs).

The next session topic, to be presented Thursday, Sept. 21, from 6 to 7 p.m., is Choosing Wisely®. The guest speaker is Dominic Lorusso, Director, Health Partnerships, from Consumer Reports. He leads several Health Impact campaigns, including Choosing Wisely, at Consumer Reports. In this role, he works with national and regional partner groups in developing unique methods to reach each of their members or constituents. Through his network, more than 100 million consumers annually have seen the CR Health content.

The session will be presented live at Lehigh Valley Hospital (LVH)—Cedar Crest Auditorium and video conferenced to LVH—Muhlenberg ECC Room C, LVH—17th Street, Video Teleconference Room (first floor), LVH—Hazleton, Third Floor Educational Conference Room, LVH—Pocono 2D Conference Room and LVH—Schuylkill, East Wall Auditorium, (2700 E. Norwegian St.). Light refreshments will be available.

LVPHO Member Physician and Advanced Practice Clinician (APC) attendance at this Achieving Clinical Excellence® (ACE)-sponsored program at the above six locations will be incentivized. LVPHO physicians receive $100; APCs receive $65.

To register, please contact Lori McFerran at Lori.Mcferran@lvhn.org or 610-969-0019, indicating your name, phone number and which location you will attend.

The mission of the APC Executive Council is to support, advocate, promote, facilitate and integrate the professional interests of advanced practice clinicians who maintain active clinical privileges within LVHN.

The APC Executive Council meets monthly, and general APC membership meetings are held quarterly. The next APC quarterly membership meeting will be held in conjunction with the general medical staff meeting on Dec. 14, beginning at 6 p.m., in the Kasych Family Pavilion, Medical Imaging of Lehigh Valley Educational Conference Center Rooms 6, 7 and 8. Please note: the meeting will NOT be teleconferenced to LVH–Muhlenberg.
