THE HOSPITAL BAZAAR

Everything is in Readiness in Lehigh Valley Hall.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE PERFECT

Many Booths Presided Over by the Prettiest Girls in the Land, Who Can't Fail to Coax the Coin out of a Fellow's Pockets.

The bazaar in the Lehigh Valley Hall under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Hospital Association will be opened this evening. The various committees and decorators were very busy last evening putting the finishing touches on the booths which present a very attractive appearance. Professor W. J. Mealey has loaned to the association the fine piano which he used during the winter. The Allentown Gas Company provided the gas stove and necessary gas and the Allentown Electric Light and Power Company will provide the light, Mr. Wisand doing the wiring.

The following are officers and committees: President, Mrs. R. S. Diehl; vice president, Mrs. G. H. Kleppinger and Mrs. R. S. Leisenring; secretary, Mrs. E. M. The ladies of the cake committee request the people throughout the city not to bake any cakes to-day, but come to the bazaar and buy the cakes there.

Klingler's Orchestra will play during the week and special attractions will be there every evening.

The ladies of the flower booth have a full line of potted and tropical plants and want to see the lovers of flowers present.

There are twenty-five bushels of peanuts purchased for the week and the old town must be true to its name and see that all will be disposed of.

They have several hundred aprons from a plain kitchen apron to the fanciest m'lady wants to wear.

In candies the women have all kinds from a peanut brittle to Lowney's. A large donation of candies has been received from Luden's, at Reading.

In lemonades and iced tea the women will serve both plain and fruit lemonade and they request that you keep up the thirst until you get there.

In needlework there is an immense variety for selection.

Several thousand pieces have been donated for the fish pond by the local merchants.

Sandwiches and coffee will also be served.

Miss Kramm, the chairman of the doll committee, yesterday received a doll from the Pottsville Hospital, one from the Reading Hospital and one from the Allentown Hospital.

A donation of perfumes was received from Colgate and Louborg's.
